Participant Questions and Comments:

QUESTION: We currently received some equipment (two servers) that was originally provided by a contractor but was turned over to the command. Will this sort of transfer be covered?

ANSWER: He will not cover GFP in this webinar. There will be a Webinar on GFP on 24 Apr

QUESTION: Since I've received this equipment, where can I go to learn if I've performed all the steps I need to do for a GFP?

ANSWER: There is training out on the DPAS LMS that discusses how to deal with GFP.

QUESTION: How do we transfer a component item to be an end item? Basically, we have an item that can be both end item and component. If we uninstalled it, how can we post that transaction?

ANSWER: Once an item is a component, it cannot be made an end item unless you take it off the Property Book. When you transfer a component, it will have to be assigned to a Higher Assemblage on the gaining side.

QUESTION: I understand, but if we have a spare component, there is no higher assemblage to assign it to. In that case, how do we manage those items?

ANSWER: The item would have to be removed from the property book and then added back on as an end item. In this case, you would have to use a new Asset Id.

QUESTION: I have parachute in DPAS which is less than $5,000.00. Why were they inputted in DPAS?

ANSWER: Agency policy...may consider that item as pilferable. The DoD policy is $5000 but the Agency can say that ALL property be put in DPAS.

QUESTION: So is it recommended to put all pilferable items regardless of the price, even Power tools, etc...

ANSWER: Again, that is the Agency Policy. Janet, what Agency are you with?

QUESTION: Regarding depreciation, I would enter the 300,000 in depreciation field and the remaining months in that field.

ANSWER: The acquisition price of the asset would come over and any prior depreciation. This will leave $300,000 remaining to depreciate and you can continue depreciation for the balance of the life of the asset. You can also re-baseline the asset to change the method or time remaining to depreciate.

QUESTION: How do we print all these transactions we've made.

ANSWER: Do you mean the DD Form 1150?

QUESTION: This is my first time using DPAS. So I need lot of training and have questions.

ANSWER: The training is available on-line through our LMS. This will give you the information on the roles of DPAS. Also, the Navy has a support desk located in Norfolk.
